Dear General McCorkle:

I should like to express our appreciation to you, General Yates and the Air Force Missile Test Center for arranging and providing a recent tour of the Center for a number of CIA photographic interpreters and guided missile analysts.

The tour was conducted in an exemplary manner, and the experience was extremely beneficial to our people in helping them to better understand intelligence information on guided missiles.

Thanks again for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Dear General McCorkle:

I refer to my letter of 13 March 1957 in which I asked your assistance in arranging a tour of the Air Force Missile Test Center. I can now tell you that the tour of the Center by our photographic interpreters and guided missile intelligence analysts was accomplished, as scheduled, on 4 and 5 April 1957.

Our people inform me that the tour was extremely beneficial, and that the treatment accorded them was most satisfactory. They consider that a major contribution was made to our understanding of the intelligence information on guided missiles.

I wish to thank you personally for your part in arranging the visit, and request you to inform General Yates that the tour was conducted in an exemplary manner by his people.

Sincerely,

C. F. Cabell
